What is a Type Acceptance Certificate (TAC) and do I need one?

When a type and model of imported aircraft have been accepted in Sri Lanka, the Civil Aviation Authority issues a TAC. Individual examples of the type and model of aircraft are then eligible for issue of certificates of airworthiness in the category nominated in the TAC. If you wish to introduce a type and model of aircraft new to Sri Lanka, you should apply to CAASL for the issue of a TAC.

CAASL is able to issue a TAC if the aircraft type is the subject of a Type Certificate (TC) issued according to IS 21.12. A TAC is issued in respect of an aircraft type but there is no holder of the TAC. The applicant for the TAC will be provided with a copy of the TAC.

Part A - Applicant's Details

The name, address and contact details should be adequate for enquiries from CAASL about the aircraft nominated on the application.

Identification – Individuals must provide the following documentation as proof of identity, unless the documentation has previously been supplied to the CAASL or the nominee is the holder of a valid license

Issued by CAASL. Company`s must provide the company`s name as registered in Sri Lanka. For foreign applicants, please provide a copy of your nationally recognized registration record. Proof of identity includes National ID card for Sri Lankans and passport for foreigners.

Part B – Aircraft Description

You must also support your application by supplying all the documents required by IS 21.15 (b). You must nominate the airworthiness category or categories in which you want Sri Lanka certificates of airworthiness to be issued. (This will normally be the category or categories nominated on the foreign TC).

Part C – Applicant`s Declaration

By signing the Declaration, you indicate to CAASL that you have read guidelines, completed the application in full, supplied proof of identification, accept the terms and conditions for processing your application. This application must be signed by all the applicant (s).
